Description

All persons working or conducting business on the William A. Hinton State Laboratory Institute must have a means of identification in order to gain entry into the building. This identification must be displayed at all times. All staff and visitors must follow the prescribed process for obtaining an identification access card. All staff and visitors must use the identification card as described in the William A. Hinton State Laboratory Institute security plan for select agents and toxins.

Training Objectives

At the conclusion participants will be able to:

- describe the process used to acquired an identification access card (IAC)
- list steps that must be taken when the IAC is missing or lost
- describe the process used to generate an IAC for visitors
